Pop Portraits Of Anyone Who Is Or Was

What People Are Saying

"What a fabulous addition to our event.

Frame Your Face goes well beyond its function. It's more about the entire setup, from the attractive and engaging staff members to the impressively sized canvas and all the accoutrements of painting. It was a conversation starter as well, and a group and individual activity. It came highly recommended and more than lived up to its billing."

– Eli Zaret

"It was a great success! It was a fun party activity that brought (everyone) together."

– Gwenn Rosseau

"It just astounds me! What's amazing is that I saw people who I never would have believed would pick up a brush and paint, painting and enjoying it so much. But they were looking for a creative outlet, and Frame Your Face paint-by-numbers gave that to them. It was the visual highlight of our event, and people gravitate to the visual."

– Carol Hofgartner

"Oh my gosh, how much fun! It was fun painting, it was fun watching other people paint, it was fun listening to them talk about it. It just made the night."

– Allison Jewett

"There was a constant buzz around the canvas. People had such fun painting their squares and watching others do the same. As the portrait "came alive" with each brushstroke, the crowd's excitement grew as well. It was a great activity for the evening, and encouraged interaction between guests. The Frame Your Face staff was engaging and delightful, and their enthusiasm sparked involvement from everyone."

– Cathy Bell

"It was such a wonderful surprise and experience that everyone enjoyed so much. To see all the people pick up a brush and take part in the whole celebration was so special. It's a great gift for everyone involved."

– Nancy Seavitt
